

Jeremy Bigwood, a Submerging Markets™ Contributing Editor, is a leading US freelance investigative reporter and photographer, based in Washington, D.C. He is well-known for having documented the civil wars of Latin America, the history of the U.S. war on drugs, and US efforts to undermine the Chavez government in Venezuela. As a photojournalist, he has traveled alongside rebel groups and government soldiers alike for more than two decades, taking photographs that have appeared in Time, Newsweek, U.S. News & World Report, Der Spiegel, Der Stern, the San Francisco Chronicle, the San Francisco Examiner, the LA Times, The Washington Post, and The Boston Globe. As an investigative reporter, he is well-known for using the Freedom of Information Act as an investigative tool to extract information from the U.S. Government, to serve the public's "right to know."
